1. About Shanghai Conservatory of Music

Since its establishment on November 27, 1927, Shanghai Conservatory of Music (SHCM) has been exerting great efforts to improve China's professional music education and has successfully developed a sound education system and diverse teaching modes. With its time-honoured history and distinctive tradition, SHCM has had a significant impact on the development of professional music and the construction of a professional music education system in modern and contemporary China. It has gradually established a comprehensive music disciplinary system which focuses on composition, theories of composition techniques and musicology while featuring its excellent music performance art disciplines. SHCM has long been reputed as "the cradle of musicians" owing to the large number of well-known music talents it has fostered. Since the beginning of the Chinese economic reform in 1978, the Conservatory has continued to adhere to the strategy of quality education by taking the path of connotative development, leading to remarkable achievements in discipline construction, talent cultivation, music creation, artistic practice, and scientific research. In the 1990s, SHCM was twice ranked top ten among internationally renowned music academies and conservatories in terms of comprehensive strength and international influence by American-European and Japanese education agencies. On the occasion of the 70th anniversary of the founding of SHCM in 1997, Comrade Jiang Zemin, the then General Secretary of the CPC Central Committee, wrote an inscription for SHCM which reads "promoting top quality music education and establishing itself as a leader in the international music community". This reveals Mr. Jiang's recognition of the education quality of SHCM and further clarifies the goal of the school.

Since the beginning of the 21st century, SHCMers have won 920 awards in major national and international music competitions and performances. Among them, there are 230 Chinese national prizes such as the Chinese Golden Bell Award for Music and the Splendor Award of the Ministry of Culture of China, and 245 top awards in the most important international music events, e.g. the Paganini International Violin Competition, the BBC Cardiff Singer of the World, the Besancon International Symphony Composition Competition, the Marguerite LONG International Piano Competition, the International Franz Liszt Piano Competition, the Paloma O'Shea Santander International Piano Competition, the International Hans Gabor Belvedere Singing Competition, the International Singing Competition of Toulouse, the "Ciutat de Tarragona" International Award for Musical Composition, the Lionel Tertis International Viola Competition and the International Tchaikovsky Competition. All these honors and awards show the outstanding achievements of SHCM and its extensive influence at home and abroad.

Currently, the faculty and all the students, under the leadership of the Party Committee of SHCM, are working hard to establish the Conservatory as a world-class music school in accordance with the requirements of Comrade Jiang Zemin's inscription. We are striving to make new contributions to the construction of socialist material and spiritual civilization by further improving the disciplinary structure, sticking to the connotative development strategy, strengthening the faculty and discipline construction and improving the quality of teaching to enhance the vitality of the school, thus achieving greater success and glory for SHCM.
